Minor Events of Yesterday. Sallie Chase thinks she has good grounds for divorce from Charles Chase, and has saked the chancellor for a dissolution of the mar-riage tis. She married him Nov. 25, 1873, and complains that he willfully deserted and abandoned her March 20, 1873.

B. J. Smith, who was a delegate to Louis-ville from the colored Sunday School union of the district, will deliver a lecture on the International convention at Asbury M.E. church to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, especially relating to Sunday school workers

A summer night festival will be given at Abner's summer garden next Monday evening, with an attractive vocal and instrumental programme of music. Dancing will begin at 10 o'clock. The regular orchestra and the Weccacco band, of Philadelphia, will play alternately. alternately.

Oliver Harr was arrested here Thursday by Detective Galt, of Baltimore, charged with stealing the contents of a grocory store in that city, belonging to his brother. Harr, it is alleged, broke into the store at 2 a. in. last Saturday and shipped the contents to this city. He is held for a requisition from Baltimore.

A nolle pros. was entered yesterday in the criminal court, in the case of Robert Wilson, indicted on the charge of rape on his step daughter. Annie Wilson. The prosecuting attorney stated that after repeated efforts, he had been unable to find the prosecuting witness, and further from information received he was satisfied that the charges could not be sustained.

The meeting of the St. Patrick's Total Abstinence society to morrow evening will be of unusual interest. The Choral union will have charge of the musical and literary exercises, and a programme of choice literary and musical selections has been arranged. In addition to this, three or four temperance orators will address the meeting. All interested in temperance affairs are invited to be present at the hall, in the basement of St. Patrick's church.

Patrick's church.

Mr. Arthur C. Webb, manager for this city of the Hayward hand gronade fire extinguisher, gave another exhibition of his apparatus yesterday afterboon on a vacant lot just south of the government printing office. There were present representatives from the government printing office, treasury department, equipment bureau of the navy department, and from numerous business houses in the city. The house built of pine boards saturated with tar and kerosene oil was set on fire, by igniting a lot of newspapers and kindling wood in the bottom of it. After the house was well ablaze Mr. Webb threw five of his grenades at it. The gronades broke and extinguished the flames in ten seconds. The crowd applanded the performance. The quartermaster general's department has been supplied with the Hayward extinguishors.

at merely nominal prices-that is, from the original price we will give you two-thirds and keep one-third for ourselves.

Some customers were disappointed yesterday morning at 10 o'clock because we could not show them the Silk Suit advertised yesterday at $5. It was sold before 9 o'clock, the second customer offering to give more than our price to the lady that

It is evident that where there is only one of a style of garments advertised we cannot sell it to more than one customer. Below we specify the number, cost, and reduced price of each garment. We do this to demonstrate to every one clearly and plainly what we have done, and what we have to sell.

Ladies' desiring a nice wrap for evening wear, or to take away with them to the seashore, will do well to examine these garments.
